Overview

Jakob Zöchling advises his clients across all areas of individual and collective employment law, including related litigation at all levels. His practice focuses particularly on employee leasing, global mobility, and restructuring measures. Jakob consistently demonstrates his ability to quickly adapt to new situations, whether or not they involve cross-border aspects.

Jakob is known for his ability to blend strategic insight with economic considerations in his advisory work. This approach allows him to provide clients with practical and forward-thinking solutions. He is highly valued by his clients for his persistence as well as for his dedication to crafting innovative, customized solutions that extend beyond the immediate boundaries of employment law.

Before joining Littler in 2020, Jakob gained valuable experience at a renowned tax consultancy firm.
