Overview

Yves Nguyen represents and advises employers in a broad range of labor and employment matters involving wage and hour issues, including misclassification, traditional labor law, employment discrimination issues, and workers' compensation matters.

During law school, Yves clerked for the Los Angeles City Attorney's Office in the Labor Relations Department. She assisted with research pertaining to workplace violence, harassment and union issues during the time when Los Angeles was furloughing employees and the unions had launched a massive grievance suit against this practice. As a mediator in the USC Law's Mediation Clinic program, Yves mediated and settled small claims, civil harassment cases, and limited jurisdiction civil cases in the California Superior Court of Los Angeles County. She was the managing editor of one of USC Law's honors journal, The University of Southern California Review of Law and Social Justice.

Yves is a member of Littler Mendelson's Women's Leadership Initiative and 'Ohana Group.
