Overview

Elisabeth Ambrozaitis represents and counsels management on a variety of traditional labor matters, including collective bargaining negotiations, labor arbitration, contract administration, and unfair labor practice charges, among others. She previously served as a lead labor attorney for the Transportation Security Administration (TSA), representing the agency in multiple collective bargaining efforts. Elisabeth also focused on labor and employment matters and assisted agency litigators in several national-level labor arbitrations. Additionally, she provided legal advice on TSA labor and employment policies, ranging from career progression to compensation, and advised on responses to internal and external inquiries on labor and employment matters.
